The Portuguese-German Chamber of Commerce and Industry has interviewed ILO's Skills and Lifelong Learning Specialist Pedro Moreno da Fonseca concerning the labour market impacts of COVID-19 and the role of TVET, work based learning and distance learning in the aftermath of the crisis. Topics discussed included: youth employment, the widening of social inequalities, the role of digital learning in the near future; and, the ILO's response in the area of skills. The interview also focused attention on how the post crisis response will require strategic investments: investments in digital infrastructures, connectivity and the skills of learners, workers and trainers. The interview is available in Portuguese and German.
