Sector-based skills anticipation: Making sense of emerging labour market trends

Type: Document

Content Type:

Sector-based skills anticipation: Making sense of emerging labour market trends

Language:

Sources:

Topics:

Knowledge Products:

Publication Date: 29 May 2017

Open

wcmstest4_189901.pdf

This Note examines sector-based (or sector-focused) skills anticipation as a mean to understand demands and trends from the meso-level and provide a medium-term perspective of developments and scenarios.   Results and products contribute to a wide range of information and action objectives, oriented towards policy making bodies at national level, sector / branch organisations representing employers as well as employees, businesses, and other users (learners, education and training providers, recruitment agencies, guidance officers).

Subject Tags:

Regions: