The health and social services sector skills plan is a “roadmap” to address skills development priorities in the sector. It focuses on profiling the sector, identifying skills in demand, analysing supply side education and training provision, determining skills priorities and putting together an action plan for improving the skills profile of the workforce. The SSP serves as a guiding framework for the NTA, employers, trade unions, training providers, public entities, civil society, international partners and local communities to spell out the priorities for up skilling workers in the H&SS sector.
