This issues paper was prepared by the ILO for the Global Dialogue Forum on Future Needs for Skills and Training in the Oil and Gas Industry (Geneva, 12–13 December 2012). The paper analyzes current skills shortages in the oil and gas industry and discusses how to meet future skills needs for the industry to remain competitive and productive. It also discusses the role of training in occupational safety and health (OSH) and its implementation, particularly for contract and subcontract workers.
