

Employers, Businesses and Skills

Engage

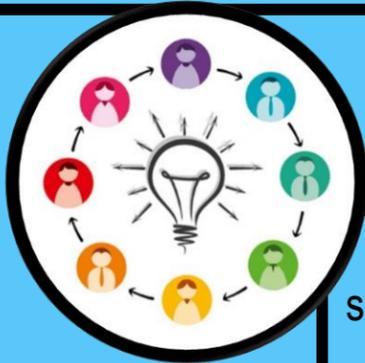

The private sector is critically important to economic growth, poverty reduction, income generation and the sustainable creation of decent jobs. In many countries, employers support job creation through measures that have a direct impact on skills development, training, and shaping policies and programmes relevant to labour market needs.

Connect

The Global Skills for Employment Knowledge Sharing Platform (Global KSP) offers the private sector and employers an interactive platform for:

- Highlighting their participation in skills development for improved productivity and competitiveness
- Dialogue and discussion around methodologies and new approaches
- Sharing of good practices on training and skills development
- Influencing policies on skills development
- Encouraging innovation driven by private sector solutions

Share

Increased collaboration between the Global KSP and employers and the private sector results in:

- Greater access to information and expertise on training taking place in the private sector either through offering training courses or work-based learning
- Increased dissemination of innovative approaches and good practices in skills development
- Implementation of commitments made under the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. (Goal 4 on Quality Education and Lifelong Learning, Goal 5 on Gender Equality, Goal 8 on Decent Work and Economic Growth, Goal 10 on Reducing Inequality and Goal 17 on Global Partnerships for Sustainable Development.)

Want to know more? Contact us to learn how you can contribute your wealth of knowledge, ideas and experiences on delivering skills training, as well as research and analysis on skills, hiring practices, human resource development and labour market trends.

knowledge@skillsforemployment.org

www.skillsforemployment.org